Capo Coda Cavallo

Porto Coda Cavallo, Sardinia, Italy

Located in an idyllic bay with direct access to white sandy beaches, Capo Coda Cavallo is a fabulous seaside villa for a large gathering of friends and family.

Built in 1976 by Caccia Damonioni, a famous Italian architect, Capo Coda Cavallo is a low roofed, pinky salmon stone property, typical of this area of Sardinia. Completely private and far removed from the more frequented and better known Costa Smeralda, Capo Coda Cavallo commands stunning views of the beautiful, unspoilt bay. From the house, a mere fifty metres of sandy path leads one to the beach and the crystal clear, Sardinian waters - a real haven for swimmers, totally safe for children and ideal for watersports of all kinds.

The property is large and the rooms spacious, built on one level to minimise environmental impact, it includes two large sitting rooms and a dining room, each with huge landscape windows. These bring in the natural light and frame the most wonderful views of the sea, whenever one finds oneself inside the house. The kitchen is extremely well equipped, bedrooms are spacious and there are ample bathrooms for larger parties. All modern facilities including satellite television and CD player are provided and there is a motorboat available for hire, should one wish to explore the coastline further afield. For the more active guest there is water-skiing, windsurfing and tennis nearby as well as the busy nightlife in the disco and bars.

In this unspoilt location with its beautifully clear waters and glorious beaches, Capo Coda Cavallo is an exceptional and much sought-after destination.
